SUMMARY

Lead business analyst with fourteen years of experience in public sector and utilities programmes. I specialise in complex stakeholder environments, benefits tracking and requirements that survive procurement and audit. I coach teams in plain-English documentation and believe good analysis should shorten meetings, not lengthen them. I enjoy complex programmes where careful analysis makes a difference.

EXPERIENCE

Lead Business Analyst, Ulster Water Services 2018 – Present

- Lead a team of four analysts on a customer billing replacement worth £18m.
- Wrote the requirements and evaluation criteria used to select the supplier among six bidders.
- Track benefits across three workstreams and report monthly to the programme board.
- Facilitate workshops with 12 departments to settle conflicting requirements.
- Chair a monthly community of practice for analysts across three departments. Review all programme documents before they go to the board, checking for gaps and ambiguity. Escalate risks early with options and costs.

Senior Business Analyst, Lagan Council Digital 2013 – 2018

- Redesigned citizen service processes, reducing average case time by 27%.
- Produced traceability matrices for audit.
- Mentored new analysts.
- Supported three audits without major findings thanks to consistent traceability.
- Facilitated lessons-learned sessions after major releases.

Business Analyst, Foyle Housing Association 2010 – 2013

- Documented requirements for a housing repairs system.
- Learned the basics of public sector funding and grant reporting.
- Ran stakeholder interviews and wrote the functional specification used by the supplier to build the system.
- Prepared monthly progress reports for the housing board.
- Supported tenant consultation events and summarised their feedback for decision makers.
